DISCLAIMER

The Northallerton Computer Group is a self-help association whose members assist one another in their understanding and use of computers and associated technologies. The organizers of the Group will take all reasonable precautions to provide a safe environment at the Group's meetings so this exchange of knowledge and assistance may take place, but they have no responsibility beyond that. The organizers of the Group cannot be held responsible for any advice and assistance members offer to one another whilst attending the Group's meetings. Should this advice or assistance lead to loss of data, or the malfunction of or damage to equipment, each member must be responsible for their own actions both in the giving and the acceptance of this advice or assistance.

Members are strongly advised to be extremely cautious in making any arrangement to invite other members to their home or place of business in order to receive further help and assistance outside the Group's meetings. If they do so they are responsible for their own actions. Any damage, harm or loss caused by this is the personal responsibility of the member giving the advice or assistance and not the responsibility of the Group's organizers. The Group's organizers cannot guarantee the bona fides of any member.
